New parks planned

Recreational program gains federal funding

BY SUE McDONALD
The Roman Staff

Romulus officials have found that the city's allotment of federal revenue sharing funds is just what they needed to expand the fledgling recreational program.

Armed with $409,042 in funds from the federal government for fiscal 1974-75, the city has been able to develop two of lion's share of the money.

Some $182,000 has been set aside to finance work at park sites in the Henry Ruff-Ecorse Road area and at the Merriman Elementary School.

BOTH SITES are under development with a tentative opening date set for next month. According to Helen Gallien of the Romulus Treasury Department, the city is waiting for its funding to pay off on the developments.

The city also has set aside $80,000 of the allotment for public safety with the money to be used to expand the activities of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department in Romulus.

The money will go for the hiring of two detectives and a juvenile officer to handle criminal investigation and juvenile problems in the city.

A smaller portion of the funds, $35,322, has been set aside to handle environmental protection activities.

ACCORDING TO Mrs. Gallien the money will be used to upgrade the appearance of the city through the demolition of condemned buildings, the cleaning of drain ditches and other improvement projects.

The final $100,000 of the allotment will be used for public transportation, allowing the city to update vehicles in the Romulus Department of Public Works.

Mrs. Gallien said the city will purchase vehicles for the city's ordinance officer and dog warden along with meeting the department's other needs.

Mrs. Gallien added that the "fact that something is being done with the money will increase the city's revenue sharing allotment."

"THE IDEA IS to improve the city," she said. "The city uses the money in projects to prove that the funds are needed here."

She added that the idea behind revenue sharing is to allow residents to have more say in how their federal tax dollars are being spent.

"The 5-year program is to prove that the people can handle the money better than the federal government," she added.

The first federal revenue sharing program was set up following the Revolutionary War, permitting the original 13 states to take advantage of a surplus in the federal budget.

TODAY, THE idea behind the program is to allow the taxing entity to have the money to spend, she said.

Construction to begin on auto parts factory

Unemployed Western Wayne County residents may get a break soon with the beginning of construction of a $100,000 million automotive parts factory in Romulus.

The 700,000 square-foot plus facility is being built on about 100 acres of a 370-acre parcel owned by the General Motors Corp. (GM).

According to John Chihian Jr., the Romulus industrial coordinator, the facility represents an addition of from 1,300 to 1,500 jobs in the employment market in the city.

THE EMPLOYMENT picture also may be brightened by the supportive industry the facility will attract to Romulus, enlarging the availability of jobs, he added.

The largest industrial facility other than Detroit Metropolitan Airport to locate in the city, the factory will be located on Ecorse Road west of the C and O Railroad tracks.

A small GM plant currently is located on the site.

Chihian said the corporation will use much of the wooded area on the parcel to screen the building from the road in an effort to retain the "woodsy setting."

A COMBINATION office-factory complex, the facility will utilize a new boiler system, allowing the plant to operate on either coal or gas, easing the threat of energy crippling shortages.

'People mover' to aid Metro Airport traveler

Visitors and travelers at Detroit Metropolitan Airport soon will find the distance between the airport's facilities a bit shorter.

Airport officials Saturday said the facility will be equipped with 1.3 miles of an automated "people mover" system, connecting its terminals, hotels and parking lots.

According to James Davey, the airport manager and head of the Wayne County Road Commission which operates the facility, the $13 million project will include electric cars capable of carrying passengers at a speed of 25 miles per hour for as little as 10 cents per person.

THE CARS WOULD travel on one level and be able to transport up to 30 passengers per trip. The cars' power would be generated through an electric rail built either to the side or the center of the vehicles' guideway.

Eight stops are planned along the proposed route, but the use of automation would permit a car to bypass any stop, if there was no demand for the service there.

Airport officials said the system would be erected on the second level of the terminals, the level used by the airlines' departing passengers.

GETTING THINGS TOGETHER—It's obvious that fifth graders Alan Currie and Lori Orsini (in the foreground) find their assembly line work engrossing. They were members of the production team that created a variety of learning games in a classroom "factory" set up as part of the learning process in their classroom at Mt. Pleasant Elementary School in Romulus.

Inter-departmental dependence, cooperation, pride in the product as well as arithmetic, spelling vocabulary and filling out forms were all included in the pilot program planned by teachers Charlotte Price and Donna Allen.—Romulus Roman photo.

But no one's out of work

Industry 'closes' in city

BY KAY DeBORD
Of The Roman Staff

The Mt. Pleasant Industries plant in Romulus closed down. But nobody is out of a job, no pickets have been posted and there are no plans to collect unemployment.

There was no heartache because the "plant" was part of a pilot "Career Awareness" program at the Mt. Pleasant Elementary School designed to give 60 fifth grade students a taste of life outside the classroom.

The students filled out applications and social security forms, were interviewed for jobs, chosen for positions, filled out time cards, wore badges and assumed responsibility, as part of the Mt. Pleasant Industries set-up. After applying they became superintendents, foremen, workers, inspectors, quality control people, payroll clerks, caterers and first aid personnel, for the in-school woodworking production line set-up.

DRAFTSMEN measured wood for the product, jigsawers cut it, drillers punched it, and sanders and painters finished it. The production line ended in an array of learning games and a wealth of learning, according to fifth grade teachers Charlotte Price and Donna Allen.

Learning was an "added bonus" to the students because they were so engrossed in the activity that they didn't realize they were learning to fill out forms, and to use arithmetic, spelling and vocabulary while performing work they considered "fun".

According to Mrs. Allen, most students learned cooperation on the job and inter-dependency between departments to carry out work without hold-ups.

Everyone ended up with a great deal of insight on the everyday working world and what it involves, Mrs. Price said.

THE PROJECT took three weeks to set up and actual work was condensed into four days of wood working production by two classrooms.

The pilot project, funded by the Romulus Community Schools, was planned by the fifth grade teachers at a cost of $2 per student.

Mt. Pleasant, are working under requirements of the recently passed State Public Act 97, which calls for all Michigan school districts to work out plans for career education and job awareness by 1975.

Job awareness has been incorporated into classroom plans from kindergarten to sixth grade in the Romulus district, and junior high schools will take up a program tentatively titled "Career Exploration," in the fall, report school administrators.

SOME AREAS of career education have been incorporated into the high school curriculum, but expanded plans for the program are expected to be completed.

Romulus assumed a leadership position in the career education field after being named one of four districts in the state approved for a pilot career education program for the 1974-75 school year.

300 residents inspect student-built house

More than 300 area residents attended a student-sponsored open house at a new home constructed by the students of the Belleville High School Building Trades Class.

The ranch-style home, the first of three to be built by the students, is located at Sheldon and Beverly roads in Van Buren Township.

The home was built as part of a class project to teach students carpentry skills in an "on-the-job" situation. The students were aided by Bill Nagy, supervisor of the Van Buren Public School District's Vocational Education Program.

Ball game to benefit a family

A women's all-star baseball game to benefit a Romulus family whose home burned to the ground is scheduled for Sunday.

Co-sponsored by the Romulus Jaycees, the Romulus Recreation Department, the Romulus Board of Education and the Romulus Homeowners Association, the benefit is being held to help the family of Joseph Johnson whose home on Grant Road was destroyed.

Johnson has been on strike for three months, and was unable to purchase enough insurance to cover the loss, a benefit game spokesperson said.

All-star players from Romulus' women's softball league will be split into two teams to be coached by Romulus Mayor Terry L. Trout and Mayor Pro Tem Beverly McAnalley.

The game will begin at 2 p.m. at the Romulus Senior High School baseball field.

Admission is $1 for adults, 50 cents for children and preschool children will be admitted free.

Telephone rep tells company's philosophy

A new $3 million switching center being constructed on Sumpter Road in Van Buren Township is an example of Michigan Bell Telephone's construction philosophy.

Eugene L. Greek, Bell's area manager, told the Belleville Rotary Club that the center, expected to be completed by the spring, is designed to meet future needs.

Greek said the course of anticipating needs is less costly than waiting for public demand for service, but that the course of anticipating growth requires immediate rate increases for the company.

Greek added that the telephone needs of the people of Michigan are expanding rapidly with calling volume up 57 per cent and the number of telephones up 50 per cent since 1964.

"It takes an unusually large amount of copper cable, intricate switching machines, specially equipped vehicles and administrative facilities to provide telephone service," Greek said. "In fact, it takes about $235 in capital investment to produce telephone service to generate $100 in revenue." To keep up with the exploding demand for telephone service, Michigan Bell had to spend $1.5 billion in the past five years for construction and other capital items.

Romulus resident airs Ford Motor Co. dispute

A Romulus resident, acting as foremen's representative at the Wayne Ford Assembly Plant, used a recent stockholders' meeting to air the employees' side of a production dispute at the facility.

Richard Zavodsky, a former foreman at the plant, said the move was made to halt the squeeze being placed on the foremen because of production errors at the factory.

According to Zavodsky, plant officials have made the foremen "scapegoats" in the production problem in hopes of resolving it.

THE PLANT, which switched over to the production of Ford's compact Maverick earlier this year, has been producing the cars at a rate of about 60 per hour, but has had as low as 13 approved for shipment out of each hourly lot.

He said foremen at the plant have been fired and mistreated "to justify the big shots' job" rather than an attempt by management to stop the production problems. He added that in the five years he was employed at the plant, six foremen, working on the final line of production, were fired. Of those, only one was rehired to work another production line.

"The foremen are dissatisfied because they don't get their raises on time, and the management is using them as scapegoats to buy time," he said.

"THE FACTORY needs a better salaried department to look into the problems of the foremen and to back them up when they're in a squeeze," he said.

Zavodsky also contacted Ford Motor Co. President Lee Iacocca in an effort to bring the plant's problems to light.

He said the letter resulted in a change in the assistant plant manager, the retiring of another managerial employee and an improvement in the first run production of the cars.

Zavodsky, who was transferred to the Ford Rouge Plant following a dispute over production problems, said he was sent to the other plant because "they got tired of me trying to make changes."

Work begins

Chihani said gas is available for the plant through the Michigan Consolidated Gas Co.

The facility will take advantage of its proximity to the railroad line. A spur track at the site will be extended to allow for coal deliveries, he added.

Company officials hope to have the plant in full operation by the fall of 1975. The new plant will permit the expansion of production at GM's Detroit Diesel manufacturing facility in Redford Township.

THE PLANT IS the largest industrial development to locate in Romulus in the past five to 10 years and exceeds the size of Kelsey-Hayes.

Chihani said its location in the city will represent a substantial increase in the city's total valuation and would spur further industrial development in the city.

Belleville girl gains memorial scholarship

An 18-year-old Belleville resident will have a chance to pursue a college education after being named recipient of the Virginia Carmichael Scholarship Memorial Award.

Lena Messer, a recent graduate of Belleville High School, was selected to receive the 1-time $600 award because of her scholastic achievement and her interest in a business career.

The scholarship was established by friends of Mrs. Carmichael, the wife of former Romulus Mayor Hyle Carmichael, as a living memorial.

MRS. CARMICHAEL died last October.

The scholarship was awarded to a 1974 graduate of the Van Buren Public School District because of Mrs. Carmichael's long affiliation with the school system.

She was an employee of the school district for 31 years and was secretary at the time of her death.

Miss Messer, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Messer of 4843 Denton Rd., Belleville, plans to attend Eastern Michigan University in the fall.

Surprised to be named recipient of the award, Miss Messer said she may take up accounting in a business administration program at the Ypsilanti college.

Balance of power changes

Deaths have profound Senate influence

By BOB BERG

Lansing Bureau Chief

were stricken should be a sobering reminder that it can happen to anyone, and that the petty concerns that so often influence what happens in the legislature really aren't all that important.

The next few weeks will tell whether things carry on in a "business as usual" atmosphere, whether members of the Senate — men who often become inflicted with a feeling of superiority — have been at all jolted by deaths of two colleagues. Or whether the tendency of many to think of short-term self-interest above all else continues.

Both O'Brien and Stamm were known as two members who could be counted on to vote their conscience on the tough issues. O'Brien, for instance, was the pivotal vote in getting Milliken's transportation package to the floor of the Senate.

Those who remain could do much worse than follow the example of their two deceased comrades.

The deaths in quick succession of two of their colleagues should serve as a sobering reminder to the remaining 36 senators...

A new element has been thrown into the ebb and flow of events in the Senate this year. It is death and it has had as profound an influence as anything in determining what happens.

Two senators have died this year, a Republican and a Democrat, and each death has made a major change in the balance of power in the upper chamber.

The first death on April 15 was that of Sen. Anthony Stamm, (R-Kalamazoo). His death gave Democrats a numerical majority in the Senate of 19-18, meaning they had the votes, if they were united, to pass anything they wanted...

IT TOOK A MONTH or so before they started to exert their power, but then, under the leadership of Floor Leader Jerome Hart (D-Saginaw), they started to push their weight around. They toyed with the idea of forcing Gov. William G. Milliken to sign or veto a campaign legislation bill he didn't like, then decided to negotiate.

As we see it

Careless driving leads to tragedy

A Warren man died the other day as a result of a tanker-truck explosion. The truck he was driving apparently skidded on I-94 when the freeway was wet, it began to fishtail and the driver lost control of the vehicle causing the rig to flip.

Just weeks before, another trucker barely escaped death as he jumped from the cab of his vehicle when it overturned on I-94.

Some police officials have tagged careless driving by other motorists as the cause of both mishaps.

AND POLICE in Western Wayne County daily are handling more accident reports, handing out more tickets and sighing with relief at the end of the day when they are not called to tragic auto accident scenes.

On holiday weekends local and state police issue warnings to motorists to be extra careful when driving, to drive only when wide awake and never to drive under the influence of alcohol.

Motorists should heed these warnings on a daily basis, everytime they sit behind the steering wheel of a moving vehicle.

They should slow their speed, even if it's below posted levels, when weather conditions are hazardous. They should take extra care when driving on unfamiliar roads. And they should drive at a speed which will allow them to have complete control of the vehicle at all times.

ONE OF THE truck drivers managed to save his life by quick thinking and action, but unfortunately, like the Warren man, thousands of Americans die each year because they or other drivers are careless.

A look at Daily Eagle Chief Photographer Lothar Konietzko's pictures alone, should convince motorists to be careful. They show the tragic result of someone's carelessness.

They drew up a list of bills they wanted reported out of committee and said if the bills weren't reported out, they would force them to the floor with their 1-vote margin.

Today, the first of the bills, one which would raise the state minimum wage from $1.60 an hour to $2.30 an hour by 1976, was reported out of the Senate Labor Committee under this pressure. Hours later Democratic Sen. Michael O'Brien of Detroit died of a heart attack and the Democrats had lost their leverage.

The Senate now is split 18-18 with Republican Lt. Gov. James H. Brickley ready to cast tie breaking votes in favor of Republicans if that is necessary. The Democratic threat to force bills from committee now is worthless. And on June 25 Republicans will have a clear 19-18 majority, assuming the Republican candidate wins the special election for Stamm's seat.

NOW THAT THE minimum wage bill is on the floor, presumably it will pass, since this is an election year. Republicans who had protested they'd vote for it, if it ever got to the floor, will have to do just that.

But that long shopping list of bills the Democrats wanted is worth only the paper it is written on.

The deaths in quick succession of two of their colleagues should serve as a sobering reminder to the remaining 36 senators that they aren't quite as powerful or as important as they might lead themselves to believe.

The power of their individual vote these past few months has depended more on the health of colleagues than on any grand political strategies. There literally has been nothing they can do about it.

AND THE FACT that neither of the two dead senators appeared sickly before they

A MASS OF RUBBLE AND FOAM—Despite the efforts of Detroit Metropolitan Airport fire fighters and those from the City of Romulus, a Warren man died in the cab of a tanker-truck on I-94 Tuesday. The fire fighters labored for hours to put out the flames and rescue the driver. The tanker-truck apparently tipped over when the driver hit a wet spot in the westbound lane of the freeway. A mass of rubble and foam was left to attest to the fact that all Western Wayne County drivers and others across the nation should take more care, and perhaps drive just a little bit slower, to assure safety when driving.—Photos by Daily Eagle Chief Photographer Lothar Konietzko.

Voice of the people

Lions Club thank groups for support

To the Editor: The Belleville Area Lions Club would like to publicly thank the Enterprise Roman, The Blind Bowlers, the Lodge Lanes and the tremendous people in the area who contributed to the success of the recent Lions Club White Cane Sale.

Although we were short about $200 of the goal set by our most ambitious chairman, Bruce Webber, 1974 White Cane contributions were the greatest since our Lion members hit the streets the better.

Lions International is the largest service club in the world serving mankind.

With the continued hard work of the local dedicated Belleville will be known Belleville Lions Club members and the tremendous support of the community.

To the Editor: While working at the polls on June 10, I was appalled to see how small the voter turnout was for the school board elections. Don't the people realize that their school board is just as important as the city council? However, all the blame cannot be put on the voters.

I thought it was a very poorly run campaign. The candidates themselves should have been out campaigning a lot more than what they did, if only to remind the people to get out and vote and exercise their rights as citizens of Romulus.

Denton pre-kindergarteners are specially tested

Program 'identifies' child

Kindergarten students entering the Denton Elementary School in Van Buren Township next fall won't have any secrets from their teachers.

Approximately 40 pre-kindergarteners have been tested at the school to determine their readiness for classes.

Each child was given the Brenner Gestalt Test for kindergarten readiness. The test is designed to identify the early maturing child, the gifted child, the late maturing child and the possibly retarded child.

An assessment of the child's speech, language and auditory memory is derived from the test.

The school will notify each child's parent by mail of the test findings and if the child has deficiencies, a written suggestion for improvement over the summer will be attached to the findings.

If the child appears to be unsuited for entering kindergarten in September, the parent will be called and offered the opportunity to have a conference with the examiner and a kindergarten teacher.

SPECIAL TEST — The Denton Road Elementary School in Belleville was the site of kindergarten-readiness tests for about 40 pre-kindergarteners to determine their school needs in September. Heather Price (above), a pre-kindergartener is shown writing the test while Gail Hull, one of five special services people assigned to the testing program, supervises. While Matthew Eggert, (left), the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Eggert of Belleville, gets the "once over" from Robert Crain, supervisor of special services for the Van Buren School District and his mother.

PTA honors teacher

After 27 years of teaching, including work since 1956 in the Gordonier Elementary School, a Romulus teacher is retiring.

Bearce West was honored by former students and parents of former students at a retirement tea sponsored by the Gordonier PTA and school staff last week.

Mrs. West, who makes her home in Garden City, plans to continue her hobby of ceramics after retirement and also will devote a great deal of time to helping a sister who operates a half-way house for mentally handicapped people.

The program for the tea included the presentation of gifts to the guest of honor. Among the gifts were a plaque of recognition of dedicated service from the PTA, a dozen red roses from student Tammi Eberline, and a lounging robe from members of the Gordonier staff.

HAROLD REDISKE, HAROLD REDISKE, JR. — DIRECTORS
TO ALL CLERGYMEN AND CHURCH GOERS... (Replies are welcome)

Front row seats are always in demand at sports events. The closer the better... Higher priced box seats at ball games are usually filled first. The closer the better, even though there is danger of being hit by a foul ball... People pay high prices for ring side seats at boxing matches. The closer the better, even though a spot or two of blood may spout on them... Wrestling matches always attract front row spectators at premium prices. The closer the better, even though a sweaty wrestler may be thrown over the ropes into some one's lap...

Can you explain why bearing these examples in mind, front row seats in church are avoided? A clergyman is properly clothed and surely as attractive as a sports participant. He certainly doesn't offend with bad breath. He has something to offer, or people wouldn't walk in the church in the first place. The moral and sanitary atmosphere is surely better in church than in auditoriums and stadiums. Yet, with all these reasons for close up advantages, people continually seek either the back seats or those not too far in front. Why? Got an answer? If you have, your replies are welcome.

SCREEN, WALKWAY BEAUTIFY ENTRY — Screen of 1-by 1-inch slats on 2 by 6 stringers, 4 by 4 posts of western wood lead visitors to walkway approaching front entry. Decking extends along front of house, forming L-shaped porch overlooking pond. Box trellis on screen supports vines. Decking of 2 by 4s rest on 4 by 4 posts, joists.

Sunshade can boost patio pleasure

One of life's little pleasures is to go out to the patio and flop in the sun like a dog. But what if the urge hits when the sun is too hot for comfort?

One sensible remedy is to roof part of the deck. That allows the option of filtered sun or full sun, whichever suits your mood and the thermometer reading.

The term "patio roof" is a misnomer. Unless needed to protect the spot from rain, a solid roof is not the best idea. FOR ONE THING, it looks too heavy. For another, a solid patio roof built next to house walls is apt to form a heat trap.

The object is to create dappled shade, as a tree does, and to encourage air circulation by letting the rising warm air escape. An overhead trellis will do the job.

To build a trellis roof, set a row of 4-by-4-inch fir or cedar posts and connect them with a 4-by-6-inch beam. Be sure the structure will be at least eight feet high. Then run 2-by-8-inch cedar joists between the post-and-beam support and the house.

When the house is single-story, the other end of the trellis joists can be supported on the house roof, above the gutter line.

METAL STRAP brackets attached to the roof hold a beam above the surface of shingles so that rain runoff isn't impeded. Then the joist ends are set over the top of the beam.

Joist ends are notched to fit snugly over the beams and toe-nailed to framework of the patio sunshade. Beyond that, a number of different designs could complete the project.

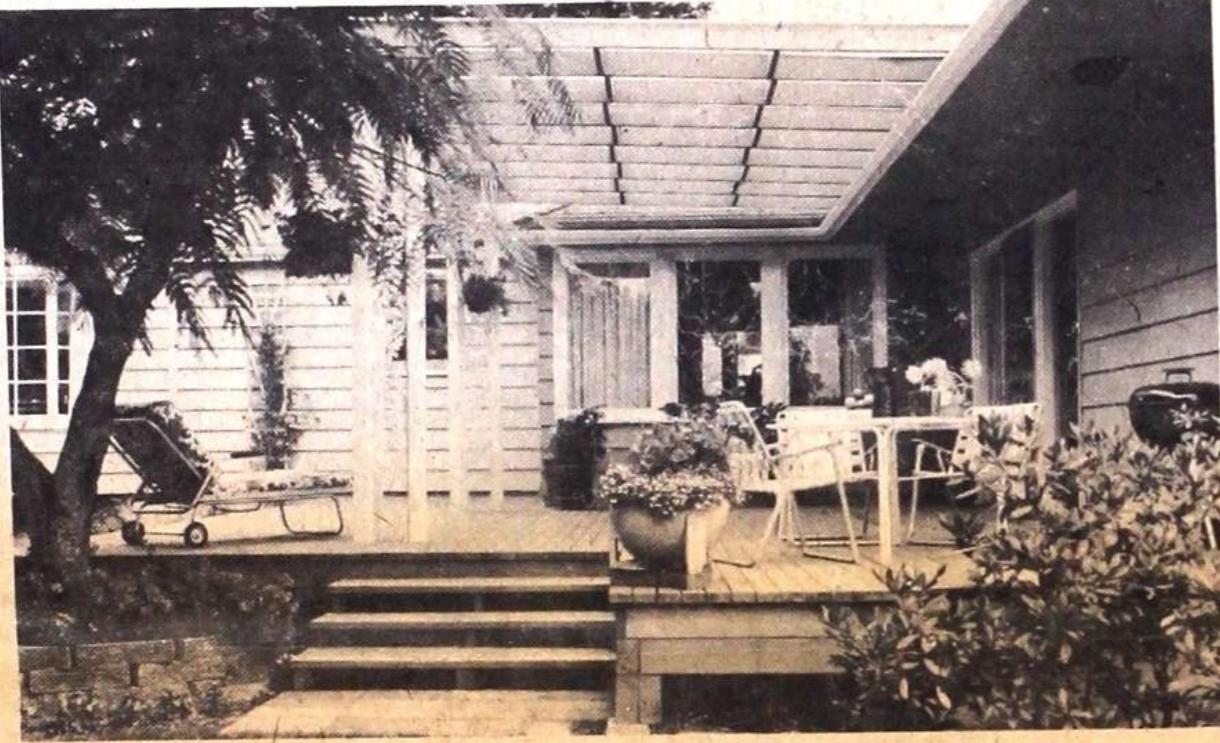

For an eggcrate pattern, pieces of 2-by-8-inch cedar are toe-nailed between the joists in a pattern of squares. Or they can be set in a random pattern. Either approach is airy but produces good shade.

For deeper shade, 2 by 2s can be nailed crosswise over the joists, spaced two to four inches apart. Or the joists can be used without additions if set about six inches apart.

Finish the sunshade roof with exterior stain matching the house siding or patio deck.

Unleaded gas

Unleaded gasoline will have to be used exclusively in all 1975 model cars which will appear on the market within the next few months, according to auto experts. Use of leaded gas will ruin the car's catalytic reactor or otherwise emit "dirty" exhaust.

SUNSHADE BOOSTS PATIO PLEASURE — Roof added over part of decked patio provides shade, allows use of area on sunny or rainy days. Metal strap brackets hold beam off roof, joists of western wood extend to posts and beams out on deck. Decking of 2 by 4s laid flat was added over existing concrete patio.

Entrance appearance important for homes

Home and Garden

Appearances are important. And appearance-wise, the most important feature of any home in Western Wayne County is its main entrance. Do it right, and a modest bungalow can look like a million. Ignore the entrance and a house costing six figures becomes a sad mistake.

But sight values are only part of the well designed entryway. Its design also must be practical. The idea, after all, is not only to beautify the house but also to provide safe, convenient access to its interior.

An obvious requirement for looks and safety is a front path wide enough for two adults walking side-by-side. Yet how many homes can claim one?

EVEN MORE obviously needed—and less in evidence—is a spacious front porch that's level with the entry hall's floor. A step-down, dinky stoop barely big enough for one pair of size eight feet—let alone two pair of size thirtens—is a hazard.

Correcting these common problems is easier than you may think. Both entry porch and part of the walkway can be improved by adding an L-shaped entrance deck. The deck attaches to the house wall directly under the front door's threshold and can be built over an existing stoop.

The L-shape comes naturally when the house itself is built in an L, with one wing or an attached garage projecting toward the street.

Cedar or Douglas fir 2 by 4s make an excellent walking surface for the entry deck. They should be spaced to permit rain drainage but no more than one-eighth-inch apart.

With the front porch-walkway completed, at least on paper, the rest of the entrance plan develops easily. A courtyard design calling for a screen paralleling the street line is often just the ticket. It's a natural with an L-shaped entry and complements virtually any style of house.

Follow gardening hints

Gardening tips for June, offered by specialists at Michigan State University, will help beautify your Western Wayne County home and make the landscape around the home entrance and patio just perfect.

When using pesticides, the gardening specialists say, follow all labeled directions and cautions.

The specialists also urge, residents to:

—check for rhododendron, dogwood, lilac and mountain ash borer; if present spray with Lindane.

—check for holly leaf miner; if present use a Cygon systemic insecticide.

—remove old flowers from spring flowering bulbs.

—check for birch leaf miner; if present spray with Malathion, Sevin or Cygon.

—prune shrubs that have just completed flowering.

—check ornamentals for mealybugs. Use a high pressure application of Malathion to control them.

—remove old flowers from perennials that have finished blooming.

—check for juniper scale and cottony maple scale now

—sow cabbage and cauliflower seeds for a fall crop.

—pick ripe strawberries in early morning when they are cool.

Commissioner Arrowsmith discloses yearly earnings

An area commissioner is the first of the 27 serving on the Wayne County Board of Commissioners to comply with a voluntary "code of ethics" he helped draft for county officials.

Brian G. Arrowsmith (R-27th District) complied with the code of ethics after being named to the county labor relations board, even though he was not required to comply because he was an elected official.

Arrowsmith sent newspapers a release which showed that he earned $13,129.50 during the past year. His earnings include $11,995 as a county commissioner and another $1,134.50 working for his father.

Arrowsmith said he deliberately was "going beyond the code" to show his support of it for all appointed officials.

Arrowsmith represents Belleville, Van Buren Township, Sumpter Township, Canton Township and Wayne in the 27th commission district.

2nd year in a row for Ebersberger

Romulus netman honored on All-Area

The Suburban Athletic Conference (SAC) flexed its tennis muscle in its first season of existence and came up with three players on the First Team of The Daily Eagle's Associated Newspaper's All-Area Tennis Team.

Heading the elite list is Inkster's Rowan Childs, voted the top player in the SAC this season with a 10-3 record in number one singles competition. The senior Viking, who boasts a 32-3 three-year record, advanced as far as the regional semi-finals in state competition. Childs gained the state finals in doubles as a sophomore. He will attend Cochise Junior College in the fall on a basketball scholarship.

ROBICHAUD is the only school to place two netters on the first team. Roger Brant and Ernie Perich, both juniors, stormed through their SAC matches for 13-6 and 19-0 records, respectively.

Brant won the league number one singles championship, narrowly beating out Childs. He was Robichaud's

Most Valuable Player and advanced as far as the second round of the state finals in doubles with partner Perich. Perich, number two singles, claimed the SAC title in that division. Another junior, Romulus' Ray Ebersberger, earned All-Area acclaim with his 14-2 record and a climb to the regional quarterfinals.

EBERSBERGER is a holdover from last year's All-Area team, one of four earning that honor. Peter Verbanac (Garden City East), Don Ruark (John Glenn) and Childs also repeated.

"Ray plays a real consistent game," said Romulus Coach Tom Baldwin, "he's a strong hitter and a steady performer."

WESTLAND JOHN GLENN'S Don Ruark, a senior, boasted a 12-4 mark in 1974. Although he did not compete in the state tournament last season, he did in 1973 and was finally eliminated in the regional quarterfinals.

SEVEN OTHER top area tennis players are awarded Honorable Mention. They are: Kevin Mitchell, Inkster, Bill Ingalls, Wayne Memorial; Rick Novak, Garden City West; Roger McCreery, Westland John Glenn; Rich VanWagner and Doug Barr, Livonia Churchill; and Dean Morrison, Livonia Franklin.

Garden City West's Scott Worthy and city rival East's Pete Verbanac also grace the list with 9-3 and 8-4 records as seniors. Both were number one singles players.

The only other junior on the elite team is Livonia Churchill's Mark Cheadle, who

The story of a Tiger batboy

By TOM MOORADIAN

A cold rain had fallen late Monday afternoon and it yielded to a shivering northerly wind — the curse of all baseball players and fans.

The weather was a far contrast to the stifling jungle heat in Vietnam where a mortar shell had narrowly missed taking the life of a young U.S. Marine, Mark Hobson.

Hobson was a machine gunner who took some of the fragments of the shell in his shoulder and head.

"I was one of the lucky ones," related the former Detroit Tiger batboy, "some of the guys didn't make it."

When the rescue helicopter landed there was space for 13 persons — Mark decided he would wait it out. Eventually he was hospitalized in Ann Arbor, recovered and returned to service. He eventually took part in 72 battles.

And, Monday night when Dil Clack, manager of the Cloverdale Lawn Spray team signalled to Mark, the 25-year-old former Livonia Franklin-Detroit Western prep had reached another goal: to become a pitcher.

"I WAS A little wild," relates Hobson, "I used to have good control but the weather was bad. There was rain and wind."

Cloverdale managed to win a 16-10 ball game in the Dearborn Class A League at the expense of Lakesales. Mark got the save.

"Our plan was to pitch the last two innings," the 5-foot-8, 160-pound right-hander said. "And we managed to get through."

Hobson has seen a lot of good- and bad- pitchers during his young life. When he was only nine years old the guards around Tiger Stadium took a liking to him and would turn their backs so the youngster could sneak into the ball park.

Later, at the wise old age of 10, he struck up an acquaintance with Al Kaline and other Tigers who helped Mark get the job all youngsters dream about — Tiger batboy.

That was back in 1965.

"I lived on the southwest side of Detroit," related Hobson, "and after school I would go down to the stadium and the guards would let me in."

"OF COURSE THOSE were only for the afternoon games, but eventually I got to know the stars like Kaline and somehow or other I landed the visiting team's batboy job."

"You see some of the visiting teams don't bring their batboys, so I would get a chance to put on their uniform and do the job."

"But in 1965 I was made the Tiger batboy and I also did that in 1966."

Mark remembers the Chuck Dresen era well (1963-66). In fact, in that short period the Tigers were forced to call upon Bob Swift and Frank Skaff to handle the managerial duties when the former Tiger skipper died.

"I think those days were the happiest of my life," said Mark.

In fact, Mark was so happy with the job he had that when an "either-or-ultimatum" was given him by Livonia Franklin Coach Ron Heller he took the "or."

"We moved to Westland in 1966," continued Hobson, "and I wanted to play ball for Franklin, however, the practice session and the batboy's job conflicted."

"The coach told me one or the other had to go, I decided to stay with the Tigers."

IN 1966, MARK enlisted in the Marines and eventually made it to Vietnam. During one of his furloughs he met and married, Pauline. The marriage has produced a son, Mark II.

Between his job with Detroit Diesel in Wayne and sandlot baseball, Hobson doesn't have much time for the Tigers now.

"I got down there once and visited with Kaline, Hiller, Northrup and Freehan and wished them all the luck in the world. You know all four remembered me."

Bartlo resigns as GC East athletic director

Len Bartlo, head of the Garden City East High athletic program, has resigned as the school's athletic director.

Bartlo, 42, cited increasing demands on his time and the absence from his family as reasons from the resignation.

"The expansion of athletics - the increased length of the seasons, number of sports and number of events," Bartlo said, "and many other duties of the job of athletic director has limited my obligations to my family to a great extent."

"Therefore, I regret that I must resign my position as athletic director at East High," Bartlo stated in his letter of resignation to Bracken L. Snow, superintendent of the Garden City School system.

SCHOOL OFFICIALS said they have accepted the resignation and are in the process of interviewing candidates for a successor.

Bartlo pointed out that he felt some of his goals had been realized, while others fell short. He has held the position of athletic director since 1968.

East was hit with a scandal this year involving members of the high school track and field team who were accused of breaking into a storage room and stealing football equipment.

Because of the incident school authorities decided to cancel the rest of the track season.

BARTLO said the incident didn't have anything to do with his resignation.

"I had been reappointed this year as AD," he said, "but I have three boys, ages 14 to 11, so I had to accept the resignation.

He said he has accepted the

YOU ARE NOT JUST ANY FAMILY!

Buying a home for your family is a family affair! And the home you buy today should serve your family's needs now and in the years to come.

Because home buying is such an important move for each member of your family, Garlings considers each home-seeking family as a total unit of separate, distinct individuals.

You are not just any family with us!

We know no two families are alike. Neither are individual members of the same family alike. Each has its own interests, hobbies, friends, study habits, entertainment preferences and wants and needs. Failing to recognize these differences in selecting a home is a mistake. Recognizing them and trying to provide for maximum total family satisfaction is the way we do business at Garlings.

For friendly, helpful, interested assistance in seeking a home, call upon Garlings.

WE SOLD A HOME IN OKLAHOMA CITY

What's so unusual is the fact that we never saw the home. And we've sold homes in Kingman, Chicago, Decatur, and even in Windsor, all in the same manner. And in each case, the owners were completely convinced the price obtained and the manner in which the sale was handled, was in their best interest. We, like you, must depend on competent people to properly advise us. And because we are a member of NATIONWIDE REFERRAL SYSTEM, information in each locality and the services of top realtors, in fact, an entire network, is available to us across the country.

So if you're contemplating a move to another area, we invite you to obtain any information you require, in any location, without cost or obligation, by giving us a phone call.
